

Amendments to the Abstract:

Please replace Abstract paragraph with the following amended paragraph:

An automated method for recording sites accessed by a client in a communications network, the method including the steps of: detecting submission of a search query [(10)] from the client to one or more search engines; and recording a search trail [(11)] of one or more parameters of sites accessed consecutively following return of search query results to the client.